Constructed in Mahogany, rising from an end support base of scrolled 'X' form, with a tapering and turned stretcher, having exterior reeded bosses, the whole rising from oblong platforms, supported on ball feet: the cupboards of square radiused form, with fielded panel sides, and reeding to the angles, and a gallery above the door, which has brass repoussé pulls. Circa 1815.

Provenance: Probably acquired by Sir John Gladstone for Seaforth House, Liverpool.
